

Hello News Letter

This month's newsletter is packed with exciting updates! I'm thrilled to officially announce my upcoming Shinobi portrait posters, dropping next month in sleek, glossy A3 and A4 sizes.

For the first time, I'm also compiling my work into "Doodle Diary," my very first art book—more details coming soon!

And for your digital spaces, get ready for not one, but two new wallpaper packs next month: a free collection for everyone and an exclusive paid pack with even more designs.

Stay tuned for all the release dates and previews!

BOOK CLUB

What's it about?

This debut art book collects over 100 pages of an artist's vibrant journey. From the foundational years of passionate drawing to the pivotal moment in 2018/19 when a serious public practice began—through social media, children's books, and art sales—this volume is a curated celebration of best-loved works.

Inside, you'll discover a dynamic spectrum of creativity: from infectious, fun-filled doodles and beloved characters to the raw energy of street art and beyond. It is a testament to the power of dedicating oneself to a lifelong passion, offering a comprehensive and intimate look at the evolution of an artist in full bloom.

My art book will be out on Amazon books soon!

POSTERS

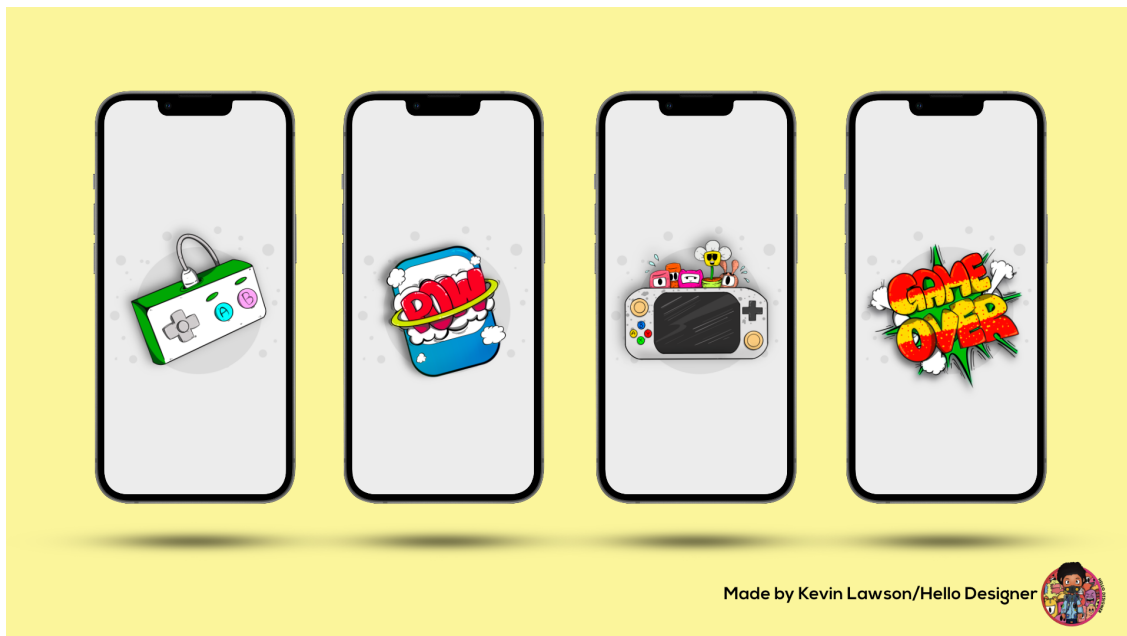

A set of 7 Shinobi portraits, in A3 and A4 glossy photo paper.

My new poster set will be up next week - NOV 5.

Wallpaper Packs

November's wallpaper pack is about video games.

In this pack you will get 8 great looking wallpapers with something about video games - A clean and colourful set that makes your display stand out.
